

Earth Zine is a celebration of Earth Day 2021. We invited artists to share their thoughts on the Climate Crisis, their tips for living a more environmentally friendly lifestyle, which animals they will miss the most if they are driven to extinction, their Earth Day posters and artwork, how they practice sustainability within their art form, which energy sources they think will make the greatest difference, their predictions for the future of the Earth, and all of their thoughts on the wide world of environmentalism... and they responded magnificently! Inside you will find 21 eco-friendly creators sharing their love for the beautiful planet we all share through illustration, photography, poetry, installation, and more! Happy Earth Day and please re-use and recycle this zine once you are finished reading it!

Meltwater “Vibrant shades of blues and whites, varying textures, rough to smooth, shiny to coarse, and transparent to dense. These are the visuals of duality, the simultaneous beauty and sadness which I found within the melting icebergs of the Scoresbysund in East Greenland. For all the ice you see will not be there very long, in fact what I witnessed while capturing these images has long since returned to its fluid state. Appearing for a short time a transient work of abstract art within this no man lands of the East Greenland fjord system. The deepest water of the world. With every turn a new story, and pattern of how the ice came to be. The history of its formation once trapped now being released within its melt, revealing the multifaceted layers and layers of its origin story. One cannot help but feel like a trespasser in this most majestic of landscape where the sounds of icebergs collapsing echo like gunshots and the score of champagne fizzing surrounds the zodiac, as bubble pockets of ancient air merge back into our time.”

Aishling Muller

Food Not Bombs is a social justice group - there are many chapters all over the world. We recover food that would otherwise have been discarded and share it with anybody who is hungry - this is done as a form of peacefully protesting war and poverty. Food Not Bombs believes that military spending should be redirected to human needs like food, housing, and healthcare.

The direct need of our community is met when we collect would-be wasted food, prepare vegan meals, and share with those in need. Food Not Bombs also provides literature about the need to change our society, while distributing food at protests.

Food Not Bombs is not a charity. We try to inspire the public to participate in changing society, by focusing our resources on solving problems like hunger homelessness and poverty, while seeking an end to the war and the destruction of the environment.

We work cooperatively, with no leaders, through volunteer effort.

Food Not Bombs supports sharing, respect, peace, cooperation, dignity, a nurturing environment...and most of all, optimism at a time when many are in despair.

www.foodnotbombs.net

UK Chapters: Bexley/Lewisham/Dartford, Birmingham, Bristol, Cambridge, Colchester, Coventry, Exeter, Lancaster, Leicester, Liverpool, North London, Whitechapel, Manchester, Newcastle upon Tyne, Nottingham, Sheffield, Oxford, Solihull, Southampton, South West of England, York, Belfast, Cork, Dublin, Galway, Kilkenny, Edinburgh, Glasgow, Cardiff, Swansea, and Dundee... and more if you start your own chapter!!

Thank you so much to our environmentally-friendly contributors...

Amanda Catherine

Essex, UK

Instagram: @amandacatherine_illustration

I am an artist teacher based in Essex, passionate about positive environmental change.

Manifesto (c) Earth Changers

London, UK

Instagram: @earthchangers and Twitter: @earth_changers

Earth Changers is a curated collection of positive impact sustainable tourism, to help people find and book trips that truly change the world.

Vlasinda Productions

Instagram: @vlasinda_stormdrain

Vlasinda Productions has been creating art in a variety of mediums for over a decade.

Tash McPhillips and Ivy-Rose

Midlothian, UK

www.facebook.com/FinalScreamPodcast

Mother and Kid project, both with a passion for saving the planet.

Writer, spooky podcaster with a passion to try make change in the world through art.

Marly Joseph Desir

Haiti

Marly Joseph Desir shows from a very young age a real artistic aptitude. His father, Art and Professor of Literature, frequently takes him to visit the museums and encourages him to develop his talents. Desir is Known in the Artistic World by his original style, his ability to create and also his aesthetic sense. He studied at the Miami Dade College.

Michele R Gutlove, Design Studio GH, LLC.

New England, USA

www.studiogh.com

I make public art installations in glass and light, many celebrate our planet, and they all celebrate the magic of optics.

Jenny Moroney

London, UK

moroneyjenny@gmail.com

Jenny is a London-based writer, her work recently appearing in Ink, Sweat & Tears, and bath magg.

Joe Dunkerley

Kent, UK

Instagram: @joewritesgood / @caw_and_paw

Outside of writing and illustrating, Joe is constantly plagued by the disappointment of McDonalds Veggie Dippers...

Chloe Henderson

Edinburgh, Scotland

@SeaSlugChloe on all the things!

I am an interdisciplinary artist inspired by the natural world, mythology, faerytales, nerd culture, and the radical idea that humans should be kind to every living thing.

Elizabeth Gibson

Manchester, UK

Instagram & Twitter: @Grizonne

Elizabeth is a poet and performer who loves walking, eating, and being in nature.

Poem by Ian McKenzie

Perth, Scotland

A vexed scribbler.

Klaus Pinter

AT

www.klaus-pinter.net

M. Nimmo

Scotland

Twitter & Instagram: @mharinimmo

Tea enthusiast and aspiring optimist, currently working as a digital engagement assistant and part-time tutor.

Annie Sturgeon

Alford, Aberdeenshire, Scotland

imagesofbirds@gmail.com

Writer and artist living in NE Scotland, who has a passion for wildlife and ecology.

Emel Cevikcan@emelcevikcanpaintart

I'm a watercolor artist.

Fazar Roma Agung Wibisono

Bandung, Indonesia

Instagram: @fazar.r.a.wibisono

"A new Beat From a Dead Heart" replanting seeds from scratch, to make one of the many things in nature that have been left behind in urban communities, such as destruction, logging, deforestation, replanting is not an easy matter to start with, because of the land.

Sandy Bennett-Haber

Edinburgh, Scotland

Instagram: @sandybennethaber and Twitter: @sbennethaber

Sandy Bennett-Haber is an Edinburgh based Australian writer currently working on her first novel.

David Dalzell

England

www.daviddalzell.co.uk

David is a visual artist, working mostly in pen & ink and paint, previously having trained as an environmental biologist, and who now takes his inspiration from the natural world.

Sadie Maskery

North Berwick, Scotland

Twitter: @saccharinequeen

Sadie Maskery lives in Scotland by the sea.

Art by Victoria Valuk

Belarus, Minsk city

Instagram: @victoriavaluk

Victoria Valuk is an artist from Europe, lives and works in Belarus, she took part in more than 50 international exhibitions.

Allison Fradkin

Chicago, USA

allisonfradkin@aol.com

Allison Fradkin is a writer, actress, and recidivous recycler.

Jakob Anckarsvård

Stockholm, Sweden

www.ankarsvard.com

Jakob Anckarsvård is a Stockholm based artist, who has lived, studied and worked in Glasgow. "My years at GSA were vitally important for me in order to find my political stance as an artist".

Anckarsvård has exhibited in Scotland and the UK as well as in the EU. Subject matters have varied from motifs from the wars in Syria, refugee ships on the Mediterranean, Romanys in Europe throughout history, and more. Motifs straight from the news is also a reoccurring theme.

Aishling Muller

Ireland

www.hearthearteartearth.com

Aishling Muller (B 1980) is a lens-based media artist from Ireland, creating and exhibiting works since 2007, working with themes of inner and outer changing landscapes.

Zine design and cover illustration by Chloe Henderson.

Join our Zine Community on Discord

Keep up to date with everything we are up to by following us @CoinOpPress

www.coinoperatedpress.com

